Some said that had Rodolfo Diamante wanted to do more research, he would have found out that retaining United Nations principles on the abolition of the death penalty do not keep the Philippines from committing it.

"The sovereignty of the Philippines is established by the 1946 pact. If only Mr. Duterte thought, he would have known that criminal laws are the defined prerogative of a sovereign country," he said in a statement.

Inasmuch, executive secretary of the Catholic Bishops' Episcopal Conference, on Francis Palomo's case, reminded Senators Miguel Zubiri and Ramon Arellano that the country could not estimate capital punishment because it has accorded in the 195 Second Optional Protocol. # AFP needs P42B to upgrade, House told

By Dave Puyosigan

THE ARMED Forces of the Philippines (AFP) needs at least P42 billion to develop new plans to upgrade its capabilities, military officials told a House defense committee hearing yesterday.

A P41.34-billion proposal budget from 2012 to 2016 would enable the AFP to buy new equipment for 12 infantry battalions and create a modernized brigade for the Army, acquire modern utility helicopters and attack aircraft for the Air Force, and a strategic sealift vessel and two offshore patrol vessels for the Navy.

Modest budget

Gen. Florante Delano, in uniform deputy chief of staff for plans (J3), presented the AFP's capability upgrade plan under the Aquino administration from 2012 to 2016.

"The P42 billion is a practical, modest budget. It is affordable," said Pilo Larama, House defense committee secretary, told lawmakers during a hearing at the Camp Aguinaldo main military headquarters yesterday.

According to Delano, the plan is reauthorizing P41.69 billion for the Navy, P14.36 billion for the Air Force, P11.68 billion for the Army and P12.62 billion for headquarters support services.

"The AFP formulated a comprehensive defense acquisition project list for future plans as part of its modernization capability requirements (from 2012 to 2016)," he said.

Short-term plan

Rep. Rodolfo Bernal, a retired Marine general and former Armed Forces chief of staff who chairs the House defense committee, had some questions concerning some of the items.

He said what was needed was a "short-term" military acquisition plan for the remaining three years before the next election.

"We're talking of what we can buy in the next five years. It should be what is really needed," he said.

Delano Rep. Jose Solis III, the committee's senior vice chair, said he was pleased with the AFP's plan.

"It's a good list, a very realistic list. It's just a question of whether we have the funds," he said.

The Army's big ticket items include attack rifle, assault rifle, machine gun, and force protection equipment worth P12 million for 12 infantry battalions deployed in critical areas. 119 military fighting vehicles or needed armored personnel carriers worth P6.6 billion for one mechanized brigade, an anti-tank weapon system worth P377 million and night lighting system worth P17.1 billion.

For the Air Force, it was for purchase of four modern utility helicopters worth P1.4 billion, four attack aircraft for P5 billion, six close air support aircraft for P5.26 billion, one long range patrol aircraft for 2.4 billion, and an surveillance radar for P1.5 billion.

The Navy's moderate scale is acquiring two offshore patrol vessels worth P7 billion, a strategic sealift vessel for 4.5 billion, a launch support system for P1 billion, a command system for the Philippine coast guard, two multipurpose helicopters worth 900 million, a Coast Guard system for P250 million, and an anti-landmine task system for the Marines worth P1 billion.

Church group to P-Noy: Total log ban answer to forest woes

MILF says some Moros not upbeat on peace

LUCENA, CITY—A Church-backed network of groups protesting the continued cutting of trees is urging President Aquino to impose a total ban on commercial logging and cancel all logging licenses that it said have become "tickets for illegal logging."

In a statement sent by e-mail on Tuesday, the New Saints Church (NSC) asked Mr. Aquino to take what could be his boldest step yet on environmental protection and cancel all logging licenses that the government has issued.

NSC is a group that includes the Catholic hierarchy, priests, monks, indigenous people and environmentalists groups.

In a statement, NSC said that solutions were needed to put a stop to continued forest destruction in the Philippines. The statement was signed by Lucena Bishop Rodrigo Tria-Tirona, Lucena Bishop Rodrigo Tria-Tirona, and representatives from various organizations demanding a complete stop to logging.

"The massive felling and land-clearing in different parts of the country threaten the nation's existence on the urgent need to address climate change," the group said.

NSC said alternative forms of livelihood should be given to residents in the logging industry and should include: to free them from bondage to logging companies that control with government officials.

It also proposed the creation of forest protection councils in every local government unit and the implementation of a massive reforestation program.

MILF officers take a walk in the forest. Logging is a major source of income for many Moros in the region.

Cops on horseback soon in Pulag

MANILA (DIN)—The Department of Agriculture said it will send out a security detail for Mt. Pulag to help disengage farmers from expanding vegetable gardens on the forest's last natural pasture and animal sanctuaries, including the Philippine cloud forest.

The decision was based on a report from the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Forestry, which said that the forest's last natural pasture and animal sanctuaries, including the Philippine cloud forest, are being threatened by the expansion of vegetable gardens.

Chief Insp. Vilmer Bantayan, a spokesman for the Department of Agriculture, said that the security detail will be sent to Mt. Pulag to help disengage farmers from expanding vegetable gardens on the forest's last natural pasture and animal sanctuaries, including the Philippine cloud forest.

Oil firms urged to cut diesel prices

P1/liter discount for public utility drivers

By Amy R. Reyes

THE DEPARTMENT of Energy is urging local oil companies to provide fuel discounts to public utility drivers to help cushion the impact of increasing oil prices on transport fares.

Energy Undersecretary Jose Laya Jr. confirmed yesterday that the DOE was in talks with Shell Corp. and Philippine Shell Investments Corp. on a possible discount of as much as P1 a liter for diesel.

"We are already finalizing this. We expect that, by next week, we could already start implementing 'the discounts,'" Laya explained. However, he did not indicate the duration of the discounts as the parties were still working out the details of the program.

A special lane would again be opened to public utility drivers specifically for this program, he added.

Private chairperson R. Ang confirmed in a text message that the country's biggest oil refiners and retailer would support the government discount program, but did not indicate the amount it was willing to provide.

Philippine Shell confirmed that it was willing to discount its pay-per-liter discount to be increased to P1 from the current 50 centavos per liter in urban centers.

Prices of local petroleum products have been on an upward trend since the middle of December last year. As of Jan. 25, the price of diesel has risen to P40.60 a liter, regular gasoline to P49.44 a liter, and E20 gasoline to P53.52 a liter, according to the latest DOE oil market report.

The index report showed that the price of diesel ended near 30.00, a record during the Jan. 20, 2012.

I HAVE MET many food lovers. Our list of them are as potent as one in Baharuth Chandra whom I met during Policy Rate Meeting's 5th Anniversary Dinner.

The quote about her in a fashion, as here, with eyes locked in a vision of softness, or lack she is immediately entangled by, but listening to her would make your mouth smile.

I was so impressed when we talked about steak. She playfully showed me a photograph of a perfectly done steak on her phone and quipped, "You know that Regis, when I order steak, I think from this."

I have almost forgotten how to drink tea!

I paid more than half a billion dollars a year

Just walking into the fireplace is almost a thrill. The warmth and glow from the brick stove just this place he claimed before, so I sat down, he warmly greeted me with his cheerful smile.

The trouble linked to it was not

From experience, I can attest that a perfectly cooked sausage is a moment of intense bliss.

Milner grew to a most beautiful, rounded duck, with cinnamon, rounded horns, yellow legs, and a rump, followed by a long plate of white rounded feathers to perfection, like only the Phalaropus lobatus class.

On that summer place was Uncle Sam's Flagon from U.S., Thomas Flagon from America, Cutlery, Japan, Roof from America with Potato Corn and garden vegetables.

All these results were impressively close, with one being better than the other only as a matter of your personal preference.

They landed in good weather, one half a mile more time in it, all perfectly consumed and cooked. The fish and poultry were eaten in much less time.

The idea of having three different meals on one plate is clever genius. Now, you could have three different plates, each representing a good type of conversation.

Each visit has its distinct role, check, train and challenge.

WATSONS PHARMACY'S GUIDE TO HEALTHY LIVING 2011

The secret to a healthy lifestyle is one's desire to live better, and while most of the benefits are physical, attitude plays an important role in the road to well-being.

Having just begun the New Year – and on the cusp of the Chinese Lunar New Year celebrations – this is the best time to resolve to exercise more, eat healthier, and give up bad habits. Here, Watsons Pharmacy shares with us a guide to living healthier in 2011.

Get Physical. Running or walking 30 minutes everyday can help lower blood pressure, reduce weight, and prevent or manage chronic conditions. The key is finding a physical activity – dancing, sports, working out in the gym – that you like and doing it for a long period of time.

Eat Your Way to a Perfect Diet. While it is true that our food intake has a lot to do with our weight, stopping meals can actually have a negative effect and slow down our metabolism. It is better to eat small, healthy portions every two to three hours, instead of having three large meals.

Eat Healthy, Eat Right. A healthy diet consists of 4 to 9 servings of fruit and vegetables, 25 grams of fiber, 4 to 6 percent sodium per day, and a small amount of omega-3 fatty acid. To incorporate this into your daily diet by choosing the right food and cooking methods.

Better still, follow a nutritional plan according to your specific health concerns. If you have high blood pressure, reduce sodium and avoid canned and processed foods. If you are overweight, decrease your caloric intake. Diabetics are urged to take it easy on their sugar intake, while those with high cholesterol should avoid saturated fats. Consult your doctor or nutritionist to help you create your personal nutritional plan.

Take Your Vitamins. While the food we eat is still the best source of vitamins and minerals, multi-vitamins and supplements can help ensure that we get enough of the recommended daily intake. Women especially need Calcium, Vitamin D, Iron, and Folic Acid, as well as Vitamins B Complex, Zinc, and Magnesium.

Compliance is Key. If you have already been diagnosed with a chronic condition, be sure to faithfully take your doctor's prescribed medication as this – along with a healthy lifestyle – can be life saving. Watsons has compliance packs that will make taking your meds easier and more affordable.

Take Things in Moderation. Recent studies have shown that moderate alcohol consumption (one drink consisting of 12 ounces of wine and 12 ounces of beer for women, and one to two drinks for men) is actually beneficial to our health, as it can reduce risks of heart disease and type 2 diabetes. Taking more than this, however, can be detrimental to your health. Alcohol – as well as sugar and caffeine – are best kept to a minimum.

Quit Smoking. Smoking is linked to chronic bronchitis, coronary heart disease and lung cancer. And we are all aware of the dangers of second hand smoke. Find out which way best for you – smoking less or going cold turkey. Support groups and nicotine replacement medications are also helpful.

Try Some Water Therapy. Our body needs water to regulate our temperature, transport oxygen to our cells, remove waste, and protect our joints and organs. Make sure you drink the right amount of water everyday, and less of everything else – soda, sports drinks, and that juice contain added sugar and calories.

Get Some Zzzs. After a hard day's work, our body needs to rest, revitalize, and restore energy. Get at least eight hours of sleep everyday. This will not only help you feel better, but will also help you boost your memory, keep you alert, decrease risks of cardiovascular diseases, and help prevent accidents related to sleep deprivation.

Track Progress. A busy lifestyle and other stress factors can hinder us from living healthier, but you'll be surprised how a positive mindset and staying focused on your goals can have great results on your physical well-being.

HEALTHY PICKS FOR THE NEW YEAR

Now that you've resolved to live healthier, Watsons Pharmacy recommends the following supplements to help you with your well being for the New Year.

Reduce Fat Dietary Supplement with L-Carnitine and Green Tea Extract promotes fat metabolism, increases energy and improves muscle strength.

Antioxidant-rich Organic Acai Premium Blend Juice Supplement supports the body, helps regulate blood levels, and boosts the immune system.

Cleansing, soothing and nourishing Easy Pro-Bio Whey Protein helps with digestive problems and enhances the immune system.

I arrived on the first week. We were a group of 12 people and hungry Dutch. In between the laughter, there were what we had. We started with an authentic boordjoe and some new recipe. Mildly hot and spicy, it was in a sauce of its own. A small fish was served with it. The soup was deep, dark spring rolls, radish pulp, antibiotic pork, beef, haggis or prawns, dumplings, also long pie or chicken with a touch of home soup, some fish, some dumplings, and some other things. The food was served with black beans, not fried with oil, but with 200 grams. One standard, instant filler dumplings, various dumplings filled with duck, chicken, or vegetable, steamed pork dumplings with fish and egg, and Thai, Chinese, and Vietnamese. One pork, chicken, rice, beef dumplings, and golden veal sausage and, for dessert, we had mango soup with peanuts and cinnamon green tea. Last filled with 100 grams.

Dimsums: Baked with traditional and well-dried turkey rolls with XO sauce are also good. XO sauce is spicy dried scallions with a dark sauce. Mixed with roasted rice or as dipping sauce for practically anything, it is an all-around sauce. Also try the lard with scallion, steamed dumplings. Chiu Chow style and golden milk porridge. For dessert, try the green tea lard with egg milk. It's not like banana with egg custard. What a super combination.

Apart from this delicious meal, I also discovered the enormous shell makes her hungry if out of this world food rice. I have tried rice food rice with seafood and veggie soup; egg white and pea soup; food rice mixed chicken and Thai sauce (my daughter Ah eum by this); food rice Nung Chae style; and, the best for me, food rice with duck/goose/duckle and fish. Any of these last will be more than satisfy.

The dinner chef is Chef Louisa and the executive chef is Chef Choi. They make the best Chinese dishes you can.

Other splendid dishes were beef tenderloin steak with potato brown sauce, or tongue with buttered mushrooms, chicken breast in pepper sauce, Chinese-style mixed vegetables in oyster sauce, and deep-fried eggplant with oysters, water chestnuts and bean sprouts.

Cold and hot drinks included cold rubber with lard, fresh pondus noster, teragona and classically brewed Sotagone-silica. Dinner was sweetly concluded with the following domestic pyrolysis

ON "STARBUCKS" last weekend, a surprised Iwa Moto revealed that her two dogs—a toy poodle, Harlowe, and a Shih Tzu, Mummy—were recently stolen.

The actress arrived with the children didn't take anything else from their Las Vegas home. (The travelers had seen all the beds on the train, where the dogs were kept in cages.)

However, two couldn't take her grief over the loss of her beloved pets, and those of us who have pets, too, know exactly how she feels.

She pleaded on one: "Whenever I look at my dogs, if your intention is to sell them, please, let me just buy them back from you. Or if you have already sold them, I will pay double, just return them. They're very important to me, they're like my own children. I just really need them back home, where they belong. I hope you understand, I'm deeply feeling right now."

The actress and her team, Pineda, reported the incident to the police. "I couldn't believe," she said. "I kept saying, I couldn't see this right now." Report from Allen Pineda, Contributor

MIGUEL ESCUTIA welcomes guests to his family's color-blasted home.

"We moved into this house exactly 20 years ago last month," he said. "I was 6 years old then."

Prior to settling down in this Pasigtopia suburb, the Escutias moved around a lot because of his father's (now) job with the multinational giant Perpetua and Gaudin (P&G).

"We first resided in Malaysia, then Australia before we finally transferred to Manila," he recalled.

The Escutia home, which stands on a 1.13-hectare estate lot, is filled with nostalgic memories from their family's travels together. "A lot of the furniture pieces look beautiful," he related. "Some pieces came from my growing-up years, from Australia and our former home in Tahiti—Village in Paradise."

When they first purchased the new address in 1990, the structure was almost finished, but the interior was completely bare.

"My parents personally took care of the decor," he said.
